第38至40題為題組

No trip to the Netherlands is complete without a visit to Maastricht, a lovely city in the south. Unlike the rest of the country, the area around Maastricht is quite hilly with low mountain passes. You won't find windmills here, but you will find beautiful architecture, delightful food, and friendly people who speak several languages.

Founded in 50 B.C., Maastricht is the Netherlands' oldest city. Its ancient walls and towers can best be viewed while enjoying a boat ride on the Maas River, which divides the city into two main districts. Because of Maastricht's strategic location, it has had to defend itself against armies many times over the years. Yet it has never suffered severe damage, so its old sites are still intact.

For a unique experience, take a tour of the St. Pietersberg Caves. The caves were created when rocks were dug out of Maastricht's hills long ago and used for building purposes. During a tour, you can learn about the many different purposes the caves have served over the years. You can also see a chapel and painting on the walls, and learn why the cool caves are ideal for growing mushrooms.

38. Why are there no windmills in Maastricht ?
(A) Because of all the ancient battles (B) Because the city is in the south
(C) Because of the hills and valleys (D) Due to all the caves and towers
39. What has happened to Maastricht frequently in the past ?
(A) It has suffered from destruction. (B) It has come under military attack.
(C) Its buildings have burned down. (D) Its old sites have had caves.
40. What is special about the chapel mentioned in paragraph three ?
(A) Mushrooms are cultivated there. (B) It provides service for visitors.
(C) It is underground. (D) It serves as farmland.

第41至45題為題組

To become a productive citizen, you'll need to find work after you finish school. For that, you will need to obey the conventions of job interviews. Without the right preparation, finding a job can be a stressful and frustrating experience, especially in English-speaking countries.

In order to find employment opportunities, there are several places you can look. Most newspapers have a "want ads" section that lists job openings in your local area. You may need to buy newspapers from other parts of the country or even the world if you want to work elsewhere. Alternatively, you can go to an employment agency, which can find you jobs in clerical and technical industries. In addition, the Internet is a new and powerful job source. Some websites list jobs by field and location, and many companies show new positions on their web pages.

No matter how you find a job, you'll probably have to go on a job interview. Most employers have expectations about how you'll look and act when they first meet you. They'll expect that you will bring a resume that describes your prior work experiences and education. You will have to dress in your best clothing: a suit and necktie for men, and a skirt and blouse for women. Finally, your interviewer will expect you to address him or her cordially, using "ma'am" or "sir" when you answer questions. It's probably also a good idea to find out relevant information about a company beforehand if you want them to hire you.

There are, of course, exceptions to these rules. Many creative or scholarly fields don't require the same level of formality. But it is always safest to prepare for every possibility if you want to seem professional.

41. What kinds of jobs often don't have much formality ?
(A) Banking and business fields (B) Law and writing jobs
(C) Advertising and scholarly fields (D) Medical and hospital jobs

42. What should your resume tell an employer ?
 (A) Your work experiences and education (B) Your education and perspection
 (C) All the jobs you plan to have in your life (D) Your prior work and references
43. How should you address your interviewer ?
 (A) You should call him “pal” or “friend”.
 (B) You should never address your interview.
 (C) You should ask him what his first name is.
 (D) You should either say “ma’am” or “sir”.
44. According to the article, what is something that you should NOT do during a job interview ?
 (A) Address your interviewer cordially. (B) Always bring a resume with you.
 (C) Always wear comfortable clothing. (D) Show that you know about the company.
45. Why is the Internet a good place to look for jobs ?
 (A) Many companies have web pages that list jobs.
 (B) Technical industries only put jobs on the Internet.
 (C) It is cheaper to use than a newspaper.
 (D) It has an international “want ads” section.
